

“Ice Breakers” – The “Would it be okay if ...?” formula.

|                      |  |
|----------------------|--|
| Would it be okay if: | You got an extra paycheck every month?   |
|                      | You could fire the boss?   |
|                      | You could stay home with your children and still get a full-time paycheck?                   |
|                      | You could retire five years early at full pay?   |
|                      | You could avoid working for 45 years like our parents did?                                   |
|                      | You could work three weeks out of the month but get paid for four?                           |
|                      | You could take a one-week holiday every month and not even have to stay with your relatives? |
|                      | You could take a six-month holiday – twice a year?   |
|                      | You could get a $200 tax refund, every month?   |
|                      | You could earn more money part-time than your husband does full-time?                        |
|                      | You could earn more money part-time than your boss does full-time?                           |
|                      | You never had to go to work again?   |
|                      | You could get a $300 pay raise, and you didn't even have to ask your boss?                  |
|                      | You could take five-day weekends instead of two?   |
|                      | You could never have to commute again?   |
|                      | You could travel the world and still get paid?   |
|                      | You could make money 24 hours a day, even when you sleep?                                    |
|                      | You could start your own business without taking out a loan?                                 |
|                      | You could get the same tax breaks as big businesses?   |
|                      | You could leave the rat race?  |
|                      | You could leave the salary trap?   |
|                      | You could wake up every day at noon?   |
|                      | You could have enough money to get your dreams?  |
|                      | You could have all the free time you want?   |
|                      | You could become rich like those investment bankers?   |
|                      | You could get paid every month, even if you don't show up for work?                          |